

JUAN BOCANEGRA

Sant Vicenç dels Horts, Barcelona, Spain, 1993.

The work of Juan Bocanegra, painter and dancer, means entering into a particular world, full of emotions, which have captured the artist over the years, from his beginnings when he painted landscapes, portraits and still lifes in the studio he created in his grandmother's house when he was 6 years old, to the present stage, where his work has as its concept a dialogue between dance and painting. He uses plastic expression to express dualisms and conversations between the two disciplines, which he develops with antagonistic movements, to reach an emotional balance, with a final plastic result. The themes he uses arise from his daily life, from his travels through Europe, Asia and America and from current social concerns. In his current exhibitions, he criticizes the current mass consumption of both physical and digital material, a world guided by consumerist ideals (From figuration to abstraction, Barcelona, 2024).
